

The Scarlet Letter: Design Your Own Letter

Think imaginatively about a crime that can be represented by a letter. Draw the letter as artistically as possible and color it appropriately. Then, write a detailed short story about a person who has committed the crime your letter represents. Your short story should detail the crime committed as well as the person's life as a result of his/her crime. Be as creative as possible and try to type at least two full pages.

An example is the A from The Scarlet Letter. The A represents Hester Prynne's crime of adultery, and the novel revolves around Hester's life as a result of her crime.

Your paper will be graded on detail, creativity, form, and correct grammar.
